BARACK OBAMA & JOHN McCAIN Among Scores of New Celebrities in 2008 Edition of "The Royal Descents of 600 Immigrants"

Gary Boyd Roberts and Genealogical Publishing Company are pleased to announce completion of a 2008 edition of THE ROYAL DESCENTS OF 600 IMMIGRANTS to the American Colonies or the United States. In 2004, Mr. Roberts undertook a large expansion of his 1993 work, ROYAL DESCENTS OF 500 IMMIGRANTS, so that the total number of treated colonists rose to 650. In 2006, he added 18 new immigrants to the 650 and noted a few deletions. In this new 2008 edition, Mr. Roberts has included 28 more immigrants, for a total of 688. He has also made many additions or corrections to the main text and has noted in that text which descents have been largely "improved" since 2004.

As before, the new immigrants can readily be divided into colonial figures who left no descendants, recent figures of note who often are "household names," and 17th- or 18th-century colonists whose descendants include several hundred thousand, and often a million or more, contemporary Americans.

U.S. presidents of royal descent (or husbands of First Ladies with such lines) are Washington, the two Adamses, Jefferson, Madison, the two Harrisons, Zachary Taylor, Pierce, Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Arthur, Cleveland, the two Roosevelts, Taft, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge, Hoover, Truman, Eisenhower, Nixon, Ford, Carter, Reagan, and the two Bushes (29 total, fully two-thirds of presidents to date). This year's Presidential hopefuls with royal ancestry include Obama, McCain, and Huckabee (plus former candidate Mitt Romney).

Among "new" colonial immigrants with probably thousands or more American descendants, the 2008 edition adds Mrs. Jane Greene Poole (wife of the earlier treated William, ancestor of John Kerry, "ice king" Frederic Tudor, genealogist James Savage, and, quite surprisingly, Irish nationalist Charles Stewart Parnell) and Mrs. Margaret Estouteville Shepard (ancestor of Abigail and J.Q. Adams and FDR), both of Massachusetts; Mrs. Audrey Barlow Almy of Rhode Island (ancestor of presidents Harding, Nixon, and Carter, plus Ellerys, Channings, Danas, Julia Ward Howe, and the likely father of Marilyn Monroe); Mrs. Henrietta Constantia Worsam Meade (whose descendants include Union general George Gordon Meade and Happy Rockefeller) and Charles Willing (forebear of Vincent Astor and the husband of Edith Wharton), both of Pennsylvania; and Virginia immigrants Mrs. Elizabeth Wood Barcroft (an ancestor of Jimmy Carter); John Baskerville; Benjamin Harrison (patrilineal ancestor of "signer" Benjamin and the two presidents Harrison); Mrs. Dorothy Walker Jones; Philip Ludwell (ancestor of the Stratford Hall Lees, the first husband of Martha Washington, and the wife of Confederate hero Robert E. Lee); Stephens Thompson (ancestor of the Masons of Gunston Hall and Mrs. Conrad Hilton--and thus her son Nicky, first husband of Elizabeth Taylor). Mr. Roberts is especially pleased to add three new North Carolinians whose progeny is largely Southern--John Alston (a third cousin of John Alston of South Carolina), Richard Edgeworth (brother of novelist Maria Edgeworth), and Mrs. Ann Coddington Fenner (an ancestor of Senator John McCain).

Also included, in Appendix VIII to the Introduction, are new descriptions of recently revised, likely but unproved, royal descents for the five Winslow brothers (including Pilgrim leader Governor Edward of the Plymouth Colony and his brother John, son-in-law of James Chilton, like two of the Winslow brothers a "Mayflower" passenger; John Whitney (patrilineal ancestor of Eli and John Hay Whitney); and John Whitcomb, all of Massachusetts.

Of special interest to many readers will be a new Appendix including 300 major historical figures. Among these 300, for 16th- to 18th-century Europeans, are early Vasas of Sweden and Romanovs of Russia; Hernando Cortes; Lucretia Borgia; royal mistresses Diane de Poitiers and Madame de Montespan; Lord Burghley, Essex, Sir Francis Bacon, Buckingham, and Oliver Cromwell; Peter Paul Rubens; John Dryden, James Boswell, and the wives of Sir Christopher Wren and Samuel Pepys; Lafayette, Rochambeau, and von Steuben; and "Rob Roy" and the Marquis de Sade.

Nineteenth-century European figures include Napoleon and Wellington; Lord Byron; Sir Henry Morton Stanley; Madame Blavatsky; and Darwin, Marx, and Freud. Twentieth-century figures, sometimes immigrants, include Masaryks of Czechoslovakia, Hammerskjolds of Sweden, and Bonapartes of Baltimore; Wernher von Braun; Sir Winston Churchill and (from the Supplement) Anthony Eden; Noel Coward and Christopher Isherwood; Cary Grant, David Niven, and Peter Lawford; and Olivia de Havilland, Grace Kelly, and Audrey Hepburn. Nineteenth- or twentieth-century sovereigns or princes (not at the top of the charts) include Victoria and Elizabeth II of Great Britain, Queen Mother Elizabeth and Princess Diana, Albert II of the Belgians, Victor Emanuel I of Italy, Rainier III of Monaco, and Queen Geraldine of the Albanians.

As a reminder and partial summary of early contributions to colonial America by immigrants of royal descent, this volume also includes: Maine founders Sir Ferdinando Gorges and George Cleve; Massachusetts governors John Winthrop and Thomas Dudley; Anne Hutchinson of Rhode Island; Rev. John Davenport, and Governor Theophilus Eaton of New Haven; Alexander Hamilton and George and DeWitt Clinton of New York; Thomas Lloyd and James Logan of Pennsylvania; Calverts and Brents of Maryland; Virginia governors Sir William Berkeley and Alexander Spotswood; the first Saltonstalls of Massachusetts; Livingstons of New York and Randolphs of Virginia; William Byrd and "King" Carter; Christopher de Graffenried, landgrave of North Carolina; and James Edward Ogelthorpe; and "signer" Button Gwinnett of Georgia.

With this newly enlarged compendium (plus the works of Douglas Richardson on Plantagenet and Magna Carta ancestry, which add much biographical detail on many medieval figures and cover more than 200 of the 688 immigrants) royal descent literature has reached a new level of comprehension and reliability.

Mr. Roberts and GPC are proud to offer the public this benchmark work, which leads to an almost 800-year expansion (ca. 900-1700) of the ancestry of millions of Americans--most with colonial ancestry and many also with European continental and even Hispanic or Asian surnames.

FEATURED CDs & BOOKS FOR APRIL

Researchers with Virginia and/or Welsh ancestry will have a field day with our featured lineup for April. Three Virginia standards are now back in print: (1) Carol McGinnis's stellar text, "Virginia Genealogy: Sources & Resources," (2) Lloyd deWitt Bockstruck's comprehensive "Virginia Colonial Soldiers," and (3) "Old' New Kent County [Virginia]" by Malcolm Harris, a reconstruction of some of the oldest records for the Tidewater ever achieved.

We have also reprinted two of the three basic works on Welsh genealogy authored and/or edited by John and Sheila Rowlands, so students of Welsh genealogy now have access to all three: (1) "Welsh Family History," (2) "The Surnames of Wales," and (3) "Second Stages in Researching Welsh Ancestry."

Other April reprints include a collection of genealogies of prominent Americans, the family history of the Maryland "Key" family (including the Key of "Star Spangled Banner" fame), and early source records for Kentucky, North Carolina, and Alabama research.

Our Family Archive CDs, originally produced in collaboration with Genealogy.com, boast terrific collections of published genealogical source records and/or compiled genealogies. Every one of the 80+ CDs in this category is fully searchable and contains page images of a number of books, whose print value is in the hundreds of dollars. Since most of our Family Archive CDs sell for $29.99-$39.99, the value of these discs is obvious. This month we are featuring five CDs covering Connecticut, Pennsylvania-German, Virginia, and South Carolina records or genealogies, as well as a fifth CD that identifies early American inhabitants named in English sources.

Following is a complete list of our featured titles for April. Immediately below is a link to the page on our website where you'll find short descriptions of each:

EARLY VIRGINIA ANCESTORS Come to Life in McCartney's Biographical Dictionary

We talk a lot about our ancestors, but what were they really like? This may be the most difficult part of researching family history--fleshing out the lives of our forebears. Ordinarily, we cannot find personality features or defining behaviors in the kinds of records genealogists spend most of their time questing after--census records, marriage vows, deeds, and so forth. On occasion, we get lucky, however, as when a will explains why so and so inherited more, or less, than he/she expected, or in a muster roll reference to a soldier's heroism or other attributes. Mostly, however, we must hope to find a collection of letters, a family Bible, or other more personal sources if we're to uncover something of the character of our forebears.

Researchers with early Virginia roots, fortunately, don't have to start from scratch in identifying and telling the account of their Tidewater ancestors. Historian Martha McCartney has already done that for them. Mrs. McCartney spent the last 20 years tracking down every shred of information extant about the lives of the pioneering inhabitants who settled along the banks of the James and York rivers. Her highly regarded biographical dictionary, VIRGINIA IMMIGRANTS AND ADVENTURERS, 1607-1635, packs in every significant detail concerning the 5,500 white and black, male and female colonists known to have set foot on those shores.

Here are some sketches of the early settlers you can expect to encounter in Mrs. McCartney's wonderful book, just a tiny sampling of the full accounts that await Virginia researchers:

ROBERT HUNT

The Rev. Robert Hunt, one of the first Jamestown colonists, made his will in 1606 on the eve of his departure for Virginia. He apparently suspected that his wife, Elizabeth, was unfaithful, for he specified that if she were to associate with their neighbor, John Taylor Jr., even if widowed, she would be disinherited.

JOHN HARVEY

John Harvey, a crusty sea captain, had a waterfront lot at Jamestown. He went on to become a titled nobleman and the colony's governor. Harvey had a fiery temper and on more than one occasion assaulted his servants. On another occasion he got into a fist fight with Richard Stephens, a member of his Council, and dislodged some of Stephens' teeth. A few years later, he married Stephens' widow.

DR. JOHN POTT

Dr. John Pott, the colony's physician-general, came to Virginia in 1621 and was described as an experienced medical professional. Treasurer George Sandys claimed that Pott enjoyed the company of his inferiors, who clung to him as long as his good liquor lasted. Pott had some serious ethical problems. While on the Council, he was implicated in poisoning a group of Indians who'd gathered to sign a peace treaty. As a result of this transgression, he was removed from office. He also was an accused--and convicted--cattle rustler.

RICHARD TOWNSEND

In 1626, Richard Townsend, an indentured servant, sued Dr. John Pott, claiming that he had agreed to teach him the apothecary's art but later refused.

JANE DICKENSON

Jane Dickenson and her husband, Ralph, were indentured servants who came to Virginia in 1620 and lived at Martin's Hundred. When the Indians attacked in 1622, Ralph was killed but Jane was taken prisoner and held by the Pamunkey Indians for nearly a year. She was ransomed by Dr. John Pott for a couple pounds of glass beads and became his servant at Jamestown. In 1624 Jane asked Virginia's governor to set her free and claimed that her service to Dr. Pott was worse than the time she had spent as a captive of the Indians.

THOMAS WARD

Thomas Ward, a potter, set out for Virginia in 1619 and lived at Martin's Hundred, where he fabricated ceramic vessels. He is America's earliest identifiable practitioner of his trade.

AFRICAN AMERICANS:

ANTHONY

Anthony, an African, lived in Elizabeth City and in the early 1620s was a servant in Captain William Tucker's household. Anthony's wife, Isabel, and their child, William, also were members of the Tucker household and all three had been baptized.

ANGELO

Angelo, an African woman, came to Virginia in the ship "Treasurer" and probably arrived at Old Point Comfort in late August or early September 1619. Several years later, she was living in Jamestown in the household of Captain William Peirce, who went aboard the "Treasurer" when it first reached Virginia.

THE GOSHENHOPPEN REGISTERS, 1741-1819

Goshenhoppen's registers are believed to be not only the oldest extant Catholic church registers in Pennsylvania, but the oldest in existence of the original 13 colonies! Hence their overriding importance in Pennsylvania-German history and genealogy and the reason for their original publication, between 1886 and 1950, in the "Records of the American Catholic Historical Society of Philadelphia." Taken as a whole, the Goshenhoppen registers contain entries relating to about 4,000 baptisms, marriages, and deaths, with references to about 15,000 individuals.

THE GUNS OF HARPERS FERRY [West Virginia]

The firearms produced at Harpers Ferry, the southern site for the federal government's arsenal-armory established in 1794, were used in the Lewis and Clark expedition, the War of 1812, the Mexican War, and in virtually all of the battles of the Civil War. This work is lavishly illustrated with photographs and drawings of all models of firearms produced at Harpers Ferry and documented by weapons expert and genealogist Stuart Brown, Jr.

SCOTS IN THE USA AND CANADA, 1825-1875. Volume I

David Dobson compiled this list of immigrants, for the most part, from Scottish newspapers as well as from a handful of documents in the National Archives of Scotland. The Scottish expatriates identified here are arranged alphabetically. Entries invariably give the individual's full name, place of residence (country, state or province or city), an identifying date, and the source of the information. In addition, many of the entries indicate the individual's date of birth, father's name and occupation or place of residence, spouse, or the name of the vessel upon which he/she arrived.

SCOTS IN THE WEST INDIES, 1707-1857. Volume II

Drawing upon Scottish newspapers like the "Aberdeen Journal," "Fife Advertiser," and "Scottish Guardian," David Dobson has retrieved the identities of 2,000 Scottish expatriates. The entries are arranged alphabetically and invariably give the individual's full name, place of residence (country, state/province, or city), an identifying date, and the source of the information. In addition, many of the entries indicate the individual's

THE RECONSTRUCTED 1790 CENSUS OF GEORGIA

The compilers of this work extracted data found in wills, deeds, tax digests, court minutes, voters' lists, newspapers, and other contemporary records--records roughly contemporaneous with the 1790 federal census--and they have identified about 15,000 Georgians who were living at the time of that census. Counties covered include all of those formed before 1790, i.e. Burke, Camden, Chatham, Effingham, Franklin, Glynn, Greene, Liberty, Richmond, Washington, and Wilkes, as well as Columbia and Elbert counties, which were formed just after the census was taken.

INHABITANTS OF NEW HAMPSHIRE, 1776

In 1776, at the outset of the American Revolution, the New Hampshire Committee of Safety directed that all males over the age of 21 sign the Association Test--a kind of loyalty oath to the Patriot cause. This resulted in a unique census of the adult male population inasmuch as the names of both signers and non-signers were recorded, and it is the most comprehensive list of New Hampshire residents available before the federal census of 1790. Previously available in two separate, unindexed booklets, the present publication places all the names--well over 9,000--in one alphabetical sequence to enable the researcher to find a person and his town of residence at a glance.

HEADS OF FAMILIES at the First Census of the United States Taken in the Year 1790: CONNECTICUT

The census of 1790 is the first official enumeration of all heads of household residing in the infant republic. The original 1790 enumerations that have withstood the passage of time cover the present states of Connecticut, Georgia, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts,

New Hampshire, New York, North Carolina, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island, South Carolina, and Vermont. Heads of families, arranged alphabetically under each county and district, are listed with the following information after each name: number of free white males of 16 years and upward; number of free white males under 16 years; number of free white females; number of all other free persons; and number of slaves.
